

Good morning, Principal, Vice-principals, fellow teachers and students:

How are you today? Did you have your breakfast? Did you finish all your homework? Did you have any dream yesterday? Who's your Chinese teacher? Who's your English teacher? Who's your PE teacher? Did you enjoy the football match yesterday night? Those are the questions I usually ask when I talk to my schoolmates.

Some classmates asked me why I speak to them in English sometimes. I told them, "I want to improve my oral English." Let me ask you a question. Why are you fluent in Cantonese? It's because you speak Cantonese every day. The more you speak, the better your Cantonese will be. Right! Remember, "Practice makes perfect".

I'm sure when I spoke English with my friends, they felt a little bit strange. They said, "We are Chinese and there is no need for us to speak in English. Why don't we speak Cantonese? It's more convenient." But I told them that I wanted to have more practice.

I usually speak English with my friends or teachers. They are very kind. They help me by correcting my mistakes. I thank them from the bottom of my heart.

Next time when I speak English with you, please try your best to help me - speak English with me. Speaking English is fun. Don't be afraid to use it in your daily life.

Thank You!
