

The President of the USA

Good morning Principal, Vice Principals, teachers and fellow schoolmates.

Today, my sharing is about the President of America, Obama. At the beginning of his election journey years ago, he began on the streets of Chicago when he was doing some organizing, working and fighting to make people's lives just a little bit better.

That was the first step to show his passion to his people, to his nation. And yet, that was just a little step of his journey. You know how hard it is. It comes with little sleep, little pay and lots of sacrifices.

Boys, there are many challenges lying on the road of life. Shall we learn from Obama? Let's step forward with little sleep, little pay and lots of sacrifices so as to succeed.
