

Learning with Computer

Good morning, Principal, Vice Principals, teachers and fellow schoolmates.

Today, I would like to share my views on learning with computer. Some people believe that learning with computer is the best way while others think that learning with books is more effective. In my opinion, learning with computer is better than learning with books.

To start with, electronic books are convenient to store and carry. Students have less burden when going to school. I think secondary students are old enough to learn with computer at school without causing trouble. More importantly, students can easily find information from the computer. It is comparatively difficult to find information that we need from books. With the use of the search engine, information can be searched and files can be tracked in seconds. More time is saved.

From the economic point of view, using computer is cheaper than using books. In recent years, the price of books has been rising significantly. Textbooks are unreasonably expensive. Although a computer is also expensive, it can be used for a long time without extra cost.

To conclude, I completely agree that learning with computer is the best way as information is convenient to store and carry. Furthermore, information is easily accessed. Moreover, the cost of using a computer is lower than buying lots of books. I think schools should promote the use of computer in teaching. Thank you.
