

My Favourite Novel

Good morning everyone, today I want to introduce a book to you. It's called "A Monster Calls".

A Monster Calls is a low fantasy novel written for children and teenagers by Patrick Ness, from an original idea by Siobhan Dowd, illustrated by Jim Kay, and published by Walker in 2011. Set in present-day England, it features a boy who struggles to cope with the consequences of his mother's terminal cancer; he is repeatedly visited in the middle of the night by a monster who tells stories. Dowd was terminally ill with cancer herself when she started the story and died before she could write it.

I think this is a good story book because it covers topic that is seldom seen in children's and teenagers' books – that is death. It helps us to think more about our life at the present and in the future. Also, the awarding winning illustration adds the mysterious atmosphere to the story and gives readers a chill when reading the book.

I hope all of you would find this book intriguing and would like this book.

This is the end of my sharing. Thank you.
